

THREAT INTELLIGENCE ADVISORY SERVICES

Unlock Cyber Resilience with Threat Intelligence

Without a clear picture of current threat intelligence capabilities, even well-resourced programs struggle to prioritize threats, align investments, and communicate value effectively.

Transform intelligence activities into a cohesive, strategic capability that effectively reduces risk with a structured, expert-led assessment of threat intelligence performance and maturity. Using a proven Cyber Threat Intelligence Capability Maturity Model (CTI-CMM)-inspired framework, GuidePoint Security's Threat Intelligence Advisory services identify strengths, uncover critical gaps, recommend technical solutions, and deliver a prioritized roadmap to advance program capabilities systematically. The result is a threat intelligence program that is measurable, aligned with business needs, and built to drive confident decisions and risk reduction at every level.

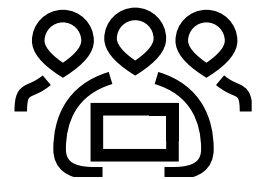

Threat Intelligence for Proactive Defense

Organizations with underdeveloped or underperforming threat intelligence programs may struggle to prioritize threats, justify technical or human resource investments, and communicate risk to leadership. Meanwhile, regulators, auditors, and cyber insurers increasingly expect evidence of structured, functioning threat intelligence capabilities.

GuidePoint's Threat Intelligence Advisory services support the clarity, alignment, and stakeholder confidence organizations need in a well-resourced and capable threat intelligence program, supporting purposeful investments and demonstrating measurable business and security value.

Consider Threat Intelligence Advisory services when:

- ✓ Existing threat intelligence integrations lead to an unacceptable rate of false positives, alert fatigue, or missed signals
- ✓ Analysts and managers struggle to provide evidence-based justification for threat intelligence investments
- ✓ Intelligence activities, investments, and outcomes lack alignment with business objectives and risk tolerance
- ✓ The organization's threat intelligence processes lack formal documentation or ownership
- ✓ The organization needs to prepare for a compliance audit or cyber insurance renewal
- ✓ Security is tasked with building or rebuilding a threat intelligence program from the ground up
