

IDENTITY AS A SERVICE

Maintain and Mature Your Identity Program with Expert IAM Support

Growing identity and access complexity, AI-enhanced threats, and limited internal resources make it difficult for organizations to maintain secure and well-governed access environments.

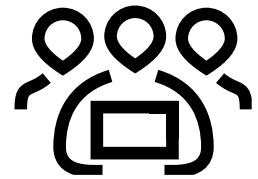

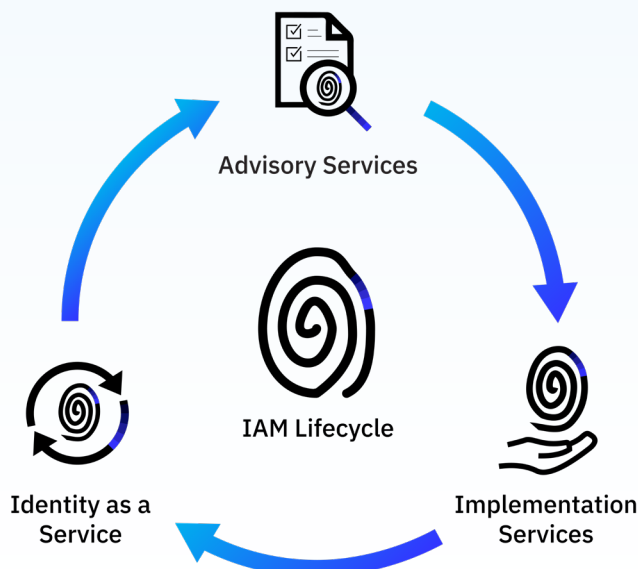

Reduce risk, accelerate compliance, and maximize operational efficiency with GuidePoint Security Identity as a Service (IDaaS) offering. Designed to help organizations overcome resource constraints and identity management challenges, IDaaS provides the expertise and support needed to build, operationalize, and continuously improve Identity and Access Management (IAM) programs. The result is stronger security, streamlined operations, improved user experiences, all through a flexible service model aligned to business needs.

Lower Costs and Risk While Improving Security

As identity ecosystems grow more complex with the expansion of cloud and agentic AI, organizations are under increasing pressure to mature their IAM programs while balancing security, operational complexity, and constrained resources.

The GuidePoint Security IDaaS offering delivers the expertise and ongoing support needed to mature, continuously evolve, and manage identity programs. Whether augmenting existing resources or providing dedicated IAM leadership, GuidePoint's experienced cybersecurity specialists help organizations prioritize initiatives, close security gaps, streamline identity operations, and improve user experiences.

By combining strategic guidance with hands-on operational support, GuidePoint helps organizations develop scalable IAM programs that reduce risk, improve audit readiness, and align identity initiatives with broader business objectives.
